

A protocol for resuscitation of severe burn patients guided by transpulmonary thermodilution and lactate levels: A 3-year prospective cohort study.

No mostrar en "slideshow"

Introduction

The use of urinary output and vital signs to guide initial burn resuscitation may lead to suboptimal resuscitation. Invasive hemodynamic monitoring may result in over-resuscitation. This study aimed to evaluate the results of a goal direct burn...

Leer mas en Critical Care... [1]

- Publicaciones [2]

- Publicaciones

URL del envío:

<http://privada.semicyuc.org/temas/publicaciones/protocol-resuscitation-severe-burn-patients-guided-transpulmonary-thermodilution>

Enlaces:

[1] <http://ccforum.com/content/17/4/R176/abstract>

[2] <http://privada.semicyuc.org/temas/publicaciones>